HEALTH & CARE:

1. Choosing a meat-based food for your cats - Cats are carnivores and require Taurine, that is important for normal functions. However, cats cannot produce Taurine and have to obtain it from their food.

2. In order to avoid weight issues, feed your cats twice each day.

3. Be sure to wash out the water feeder each day, cats need fresh and clean water.

4. Grooming your cat often, which make living together more comfortable

5. Keep your cat's litter box clean, as cats are naturally fastidious and a clean litter box increases the likelihood that the cat will use it. Scoop the litter box at least once a day, and wash it with hot water and dish soap periodically.

6. Find a vet for your cat, be sure to take your cat to the veterinarian for regular check-ups and vaccinations.

SAFETY:

1. Keep your feline companion safe by keeping him indoors or safely confined to your property.

2. Always use a cat carrier when transporting your pet.

3. Make it a habit to check the washer and dryer before using - just to make sure that your cat hasn't found a cozy place to hide out. Also make sure there are no surprise visitors.

4. Be sure your cats always wear a break-away collar and a visible ID tag that includes your name and contact information.

SPORT & PLAYING:

1. Making regular time to play will provide the cats with the physical and mental stimulation he needs and create a strong bond between the two of you.

2. Give your cat toys like scratching dics to distract from household goods. Cats love to play and lots of things can become toys.

3. Cats are natural roamers and hunter. Providing a climbing tree or tower will encourage exploration, give him a safe place to hang-out and provide natural exercise. And Try hiding dry food in a toy for him to fish out, or invest in toys that move like real prey.
